Tutoring Experience

Over the past 14 years, I have guided students across IGCSE, A-Level, and IB Geography. My expertise includes teaching core topics such as physical geography, urbanisation, and sustainability. I have also developed students' skills in analysing case studies and applying theoretical knowledge to real-world scenarios.

In addition to individual tutoring, I have worked with small groups to prepare students for university entrance exams and coursework. Many of my students have gained admission to competitive programmes in geography and environmental studies at top universities. My passion for the subject helps students connect academic concepts with their everyday environment, fostering curiosity and understanding.

I have a strong background in creating customised study plans tailored to each curriculum. My focus has always been to support students in mastering key geographical concepts while building the confidence they need to achieve outstanding academic results.
