Tutoring Experience

I began tutoring during my undergraduate years, assisting peers with biology and biochemistry coursework. This passion developed into a career where I've helped numerous IGCSE students achieve exceptional results in Biology and Maths. My expertise also extends to A-Level and IB Biology, focusing on practical applications and in-depth understanding.

Over the past six years, I've guided students from various academic backgrounds, helping them navigate complex topics in biology and mathematics. Many of my students have gained admission to competitive university programmes, and parents have consistently praised my ability to simplify challenging concepts effectively.

In addition to curriculum-based teaching, I have supported students with science projects and dissertations, particularly in biomedical and biological sciences. My goal has always been to inspire confidence and curiosity, ensuring each student reaches their full potential while enjoying
